Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Once I was travelling from Darjeeling to Gangtok by road. From a vantage point, where we have stopped to have a sip of tea, my colleague Navneet showed me the sight which I used my Nokia E75 camera to capture. I reproduce the picture as the cover picture of this volume. Have a look at it. The picture shows Rangeet river(the dark coloured one), a tributary of Teesta, getting submerged into Teesta.losing its identity.see the river maintaining its colour, and thereby its separate identity for some time before losing out.it reflects many hues that we go through in life. How long can you maintain your individual identity while working in an organization before it gets engulfed? Same in the family and the broader social life. Rangeet s desperate bid to fight a losing battle is symbolic of our life in many ways.it is indeed very difficult to maintain a distinct identity for long. So what you get is different shades of life each with a separate identity, separate outlook and even a separate attitude in accordance with the imbibed value system. The social you, the professional you, the parent in you, the son in you. All seem to be a different shade. So what is your actual shade? Or do actually have a distinct shade. These are the questions which go through my mind. Are we really an amalgamation of colours, just like the ray of light which carries an apparent wholeness till a spectral intervention brings out its different shades? The way you are constituted, somehow, comes through your expressions in its various avatars. As the digital revolution ushered in, I also took to blogging....
