Accountability Office, 2007 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)181594139 Subject: Emergency management -- United States. Excerpt: . . . we reported that multiple senior DHS cyber security officials had recently left the department. These officials included the NCSO Director, the Deputy Director responsible for Outreach and Awareness, the Director of the US-CERT Control Systems Security Center, the Under Secretary for the Information Analysis and Infrastructure Protection Directorate and the Assistant Secretary responsible for the Information Protection Office. DHS officials acknowledge that the current organizational structure has overlapping responsibilities for planning for and recovering from a major Internet disruption. Given the importance of the Internet infrastructure to our nations DHS Has Taken Steps communication and commerce, our June 2006 report suggested a matter To Implement for congressional consideration and made recommendations to DHS regarding improving efforts in planning for Internet recovery. 17 Recommendations, Specifically, we suggested that Congress consider clarifying the legal but More Work framework that guides roles and responsibilities for Internet recovery in the event of a major disruption. This effort could include providing Remains To Be Done specific authorities for Internet recovery as well as examining potential roles for the federal government, such as providing access to disaster areas, prioritizing selected entities for service recovery, and using federal contracting mechanisms to encourage more secure technologies. This effort also could include examining the Stafford Act to determine whether there would be benefits in establishing specific authority for the government to provide for-profit companies - such as those that own or operate critical communications infrastructures - with limited assistance during a crisis. Additionally, to improve DHSs ability to facilitate public pr. . . This item ships from La Vergne,TN....
